

fine illustrations deserve much praise as does the clear, well-printed text.

STEPHEN FOLTINY

Princeton, New Jersey

The Prehistory and Protohistory of India and Pakistan

by H.D. SANKALIA. Second edition, 592 pages. DECCAN COLLEGE POSTGRADUATE AND RESEARCH INSTITUTE, Poona 1974 $35.00

The first edition of Professor Sankalia's classic volume of the prehistory of the Indian subcontinent was published in a limited edition of one thousand copies in 1962. Not surprisingly it was soon out of print. The present work is a completely new work, still rich in the historical background of research in India but expanded and conceptually revised in the light of intensive field studies during the intervening decade. These new excavations and surveys, carried out to a large extent under the stimulus or direction of Sankalia, by his students, former students and associates, speak highly for the vigor and tenacity of ongoing archaeological work in India.

For the Pleistocene range of prehistory, the chapters on the Lower, Middle and Upper Paleolithic (each organized regionally) include new perspectives on the Soan type area in Kashmir, information from the key Acheulian site of Chirki-on-Pravara, resolutions of the important alluvial stratigraphy of the Deccan Plateau, and revisions of the post-Acheulian industrial complexes. Various new excavations have amplified understanding of the Mesolithic. The discoveries at Shahr-i-Sokhta have prompted a fresh view on Baluchistan. The book has new sections on Seistan and Afghanistan, while the materials on the Harappan have been updated and expanded. Of further interest is new information on the Neolithic of Kashmir, Bihar and the southern peninsula, as well as data on the Chalcolithic of Maharashtra, which is based on excavations at Inamgaon. The book concludes with a reconsideration of the Indian record in the light of current concepts and an apposition of late prehistoric archaeology with epic traditions.

All those interested in Indian archaeology will welcome this volume.

KARL W. BUTZER

The University of Chicago

1976 SWANS HELLENIC CRUISES

See the archaeological and architectural masterpieces of ancient civilisations.

GREECE, TURKEY, ITALY
YUGOSLAVIA, EGYPT

For our 23rd year of Hellenic Cruising you fly from London to Venice or Athens—cruise—and return from either of these ports. Five cruises in April/June. Three in August/September 1976.

Each Cruise is accompanied by Expert Guest Lecturers whose specialised personal knowledge of the countries will bring to life much of their artistic, cultural, and historic past. Shore excursions are much more fascinating when in the company of this team of archaeological, historical and botanical experts.

To obtain your copy of the full colour brochure, as well as brochures for all Swans specialised Cruises and Tours, please contact:—

ESPLANADE TOURS

General Agent in U.S. and Canada: W. F. & R. K. Swan (Hellenic) Ltd.
14 Newbury Street, #3, Boston, Massachusetts, 02116.
Tel.: (617) 266-7465

THE ASSOCIATION FOR CULTURAL EXCHANGE PROGRAMS IN EUROPE FOR 1976

BRITISH ARCHAEOLOGY July 9-August 20 Cost $550
Seminar at Merton College, Oxford, followed by site excavation in England or Scotland and final week in London.

HOLIDAY STUDY PROGRAMS FOR ADULTS

1-3 weeks Cost $115-650

April Tunisia • Cornwall

May Provence • Palladio • Brittany

June Monasteries of Yugoslavia • The Lakes

July Archaeology of Wales and Ireland

European Art • Shakespeare • Northumbria

August Russia • Hadrian's Wall • Edinburgh
The Mediaeval House • London • Gothic

September Romania • Rome • Athens

For information write: Association for Cultural Exchange
539 West 112th St., NYC 10025 or call (212) 666-1605.

College Year in Athens INC.

A year's study of Greek civilization, September 10 to May 1, for college students concentrating in the classics, archaeology, or allied fields. Faculty in 1975-76: Miriam Caskey, Anastasia Dinsmoor, C.W.J. Eliot, Merle Langdon, J. W. Sperling, and Nicos Stavroulakis in art and archaeology; Cornelia Mayer-Herzfeld, Harry G. Carroll, and H. D. F. Kitto in classics; Nancy Skon in history; Robert Lane in philosophy. Byzantine studies, courses in modern Greek and the Eastern Mediterranean, extensive travel as part of the academic program. Also, intensive summer course in modern Greek under Richard Burgi.

For information and a catalog, write to: Mrs. George N. Hatsopoulos, American Representative, College Year in Athens, Tower Road, Lincoln, Massachusetts 01773 or Mrs. George S. Phylactopoulos, Director, College Year in Athens, 24 Kritis Street, Kifissia, Athens, Greece.