Content Description

The seminar will provide pharmacists and technicians with tools and knowledge that can be immediately applied when they return to their individual practices on Monday, so they may provide optimal care to their patients. The ultimate goal of PPS is to improve patient outcomes by providing a very practical educational experience. The speakers who are invited to participate in PPS are highly recommended educators, including UT College of Pharmacy professors, professors from other well respected colleges of pharmacy, practitioners considered to be experts in their field, and nationally renowned speakers.

About the Conference

The University of Texas at Austin College of Pharmacy is proud to be hosting the 30th Annual Psychiatric Pharmacotherapy Update, October 25-26, 2018 in Austin, Texas. The Annual Psychiatric Pharmacotherapy Update supports the interdisciplinary approach to mental healthcare by inviting multiple disciplines to participate in a shared learning experience:

• Pharmacists • Psychiatrists • Physicians • Nurses • Psychologists • Social Workers •

This interdisciplinary, shared learning format facilitates an appreciation amongst the attendees for all of the contributions that must be made for a mental health treatment plan to be successful. All invited disciplines can expect to take away evidence-based information that will help improve outcomes for patients with psychiatric disorders.
