

HISTORY and PHILOSOPHY of SCIENCE

Spring 2020 • Friday Noon Talks • WAG 316

- 1/31 Lydia Pyne, author of Genuine Fakes (Bloomsbury, 2019)
"Carbon Copy: Making Real, Authentic Laboratory-Grown Diamonds"
- 2/7 Mark Ravina, History
"Mathematics in 1800s Japan: Western practice and the Invention of Tradition"
- 2/14 Raymond Hyser, History
"Brought into tilth by axe and fire': Planters, Botanical Gardens, and the Ecological Transformation of British Ceylon"
- 2/21 Conor Heffernan, Kinesiology
"Eugen Sandow and Scientific Physical Culture in Edwardian England"
- 2/28 Jonathan Coopersmith, History, Texas A&M University
"Creative Construction: The Importance of Fraud, Fear and Froth in Emerging Technologies"
- 3/6 Fredrik Jonsson, History, University of Chicago
"Fossil Futures: the Science and Politics of Coal in Britain, 1800-1865"
- 3/27 John Wallingford, Molecular Biosciences
"Reconsidering Buddhist Embryology as Science History"
- 4/24 Erik Linstrum, History, University of Virginia
"Modeling Decolonization: Social Science and the Imperial Origins of Leadership Studies"
- 5/1* Anna Zeide, History, Oklahoma State University
"A Window Into the Can: How Science, Business, and Marketing Built a Taste for Processed Food in the U.S."

Co-sponsored by the Symposium on Gender, History, & Sexuality, GAR 1.102*

WHEN / WHERE

Fridays at 12:00, Waggener Hall (WAG) except co-sponsored events noted above.*

Contact: meganraby@austin.utexas.edu, no RSVP necessary.

More information on speakers and HPS events: <https://sites.utexas.edu/hps>