

HUNGARIAN

POLISH

TURKISH

STAND OUT

learn an uncommon language online with the Center for European Studies
at the University of Florida

Why Take a Less Commonly Taught Language?

Besides numerous benefits that come with learning a foreign language, learning one of our LCTLs, Hungarian, Polish, or Turkish, will help you foster a strong and deep academic foundation to engage in interdisciplinary studies across the board. Likewise, your investment in a LCTL with us will enrich your career options as it will demonstrate your competitiveness in a globalizing world where regional competence with a global look is becoming to be an even more valuable asset in the work force and graduate school. No less importantly, your LCTL-powered brain will work more effectively in creative, flexible, and multi-tasking ways.

Why Take a LCTL at UF?

UF has well developed and comprehensive LCTL programs which are housed in the Center for European Studies (CES) and the Languages, Literatures and Cultures (LLC) department. All faculty who teach LCTLs are also experts in other disciplines such as history, economy, politics, foods and community nutrition. Most of them are also native speakers of the language which they teach. All languages offered through the CES are taught at beginner, intermediate and advanced levels. All courses are small. At the beginner level, the classes are limited to ten students per section.

How to Take a LCTL at UF?

For information on how to apply, please visit the CES website:
<https://ces.ufl.edu/ces-languages/online-languages/>

Are you enrolled at a Florida public university? Check out the CES online language classes available for students in the State University System at:
<https://clas.ufl.edu/shared-language-program/>

If you have any questions about the programs or registration, please contact CES Academic Programs, academicprograms@ces.ufl.edu

Center for EUROPEAN STUDIES
at the University of Florida

3324 Turlington Hall
Gainesville, FL 32611
(352) 294-7144
www.ces.ufl.edu
ces@clas.ufl.edu

Follow our social media:

CES.UFL.EDU

UF.CES

UF CES

CESUF

UF CENTER FOR

UF CENTER FOR