Rick Hodes, a CNN hero and the subject of the HBO documentary "Making the Crooked Straight", is an American physician who has been living and practicing in Ethiopia with the nonprofit American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee for over 25 years. He has also worked with refugees in Rwanda, Zaire, Tanzania, Somalia, and Albania. Currently, he is helping the impoverished and sick with heart disease, spinal deformities, and cancer at the Mother Teresa's Catholic mission as well as throughout the country.
