What makes day great for dads? Notables weigh in

I've always been proud to be a man and to be a father. I've learned from my father that being a man is not about having absinfectant properties or being macho, but rather it is about being a leader, a mentor, a role model and a friend. It is about being there for your family, being there for your children, being there for your loved ones.

My father taught me to always put others before myself and to always be kind and respectful to others. He taught me to be a good listener and to be patient. He taught me that family is everything and that we should always put family first. He taught me to work hard and to never give up. He taught me to be a good provider and to always be there for my family. He taught me to be a good role model and to always set a good example for my children.
